Warrack Ousted from City Post

MAYOR FIRES WATER CHIEF FOR CONDUCT

Says Discharge Ordered After Series of Complaints on His Behavior.

MOLESTED WOMAN, CLAIM

Denies Accusation But Agrees To 'Resign' After Session With Mayor, Crafton.

James E. Warrack, superintendent of the municipal water department was fired today by Mayor William J. Locke.

The mayor charged Warrack with conduct "unbecoming" a department head.

He said Warrack's discharge climaxed a series of complaints which had come to his office concerning the superintendent's behavior while on the job.

The latest complaint came from a woman who said, according to the mayor, that she was molested by Warrack when he came to her home to inspect a frozen service line recently.

The report was investigated personally by Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton and Warrack was confronted with the evidence in the mayor's office this morning.

Locke said Warrack denied the charges made by the woman but when confronted with additional evidence by Crafton agreed to resigned.

Won't Fill Post Immediately.

Locke said his position would not be immediately filled. Charles Hebel, superintendent of streets, will assume temporary charge of the department until Warrack's successor is named.

Warrack, a member of the Richland county Republican executive committee was appointed head of the water department Jan. 1 when Locke took office. He formerly was employed by the state highway department. During the administration of former Mayor Earl A. McFarland he served as sidewalk inspector.

In the past two months there has been a dispute among repairmen in the department. Acting on Warrack's suggestion, workmen several weeks ago petitioned city officials to force William Bolley, an inside repairman, to share overtime work and ask that his special privileges be taken away from him.

Bolley, who was later put on a night shift following the dispute, will resume his daytime work Monday, Locke said today.

MOVES TO HALT U. S. DAM WORK

Oklahoma Governor Hits Legality Of $54,000,000 Project.

OKLAHOMA CITY — (AP) — Oklahoma's Governor Leon C. Phillips, aggressive champion of state's rights, demanded today that the federla government halt work on the $54,000,000 Denison dam pending a test of the project's constitutionality.

Phillips said that if Secretary of War Woodring permitted construction work before a court decision he would take steps to stop it.

"We can bar the highways to prevent material reaching the dam or stop it in other ways by use of police, the courts and everything."

The governor's demand came after an oil strike in the reservoir area promised to boom land values.

KILLS TEACHER

Suitor, Disappointed In Love, Fires Shotgun Into Car.

SHELBYVILLE, Mo. — (AP) — Disappointed in love, a farm hand killed School Teacher Mrs. Ethel Dingle with a shotgun, and fled by automobile and on foot into dense woods north of here.

Sheriff Elmer P. Threlkeld identified the slayer as Hadley Eaton, about 32, a former suitor of the 30-year-old woman.

Firing eight times, the assailant killed Mrs. Dingle as she sat in an automobile preparing to leave the grade school yesterday, slightly wounded her companion, Mrs. Merritt Keith, also a teacher, and grazed the arm of School Superintendent Clell Ledgord, who was in another car.

The sheriff, his deputies and state patrolmen trailed Eaton to the woods but because of darkness and the nature of the terrain delayed a search. The state patrol reported hearing a shot from the woods—but there was no explanation of it.

FREAK MISHAP

Truck, Auto Collide, One Skids and Kills Pedestrian.

AKRON —(INS)— Mike Makros, a middle-aged rubber worker, was killed today in a freak accident involving an oil truck and a passenger automobile.

The oil truck, driven by James Harris, struck the automobile, driven by David Gibson, causing it to skid over the curb where it struck Makros, who was walking on the sidewalk. Makros was thrown to the ground, his head striking a fire hydrant with such force that he was killed instantly.

SEE SOLUTION TO BURGLARIES

Detectives Say One of Pair Held In Jail Confessed Robbing 4 Homes.

The arrest of two men, both of whom are held in jail for investigation, was believed today to have cleared up a series of house burglaries here in the past two months.

Detectives Lee J. Remy and Oscar Krupp, who picked up the pair in a North Main street poolroom yesterday, were questioning them at police headquarters today.

The younger of the two who is 24 years old and unemployed confessed that the pair had broken into at least four homes here and looted them, detectives reported.

When arrested he had a ring stolen from the home of John Bower, 320 Sturges avenue, in his possession. He told officers a watch taken from the Bower residence had been sold in Caledonia.

Detectives said he also confessed to looting the home of Paul Ackerman, 58 Harter avenue, last Saturday, and the home of Tom Dillon, 324 Sturges avenue, and the residence of D. M. Oswalt, 115 Wolfe avenue, last month.

The older of the two has not yet been questioned. Police identification bureau records show he served a term in the Ohio Sate reformatory several years ago for similiar thefts.

Discussions which may lead to peace between Finland and Russia have been held in Stockholm and today were reported to have shifted to Moscow. The negotiations are being carried on by the five personalities shown above. They are Sven Hedin, noted Swedish explorer who is a close confidant of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and Field Marshal Hermann Goering; Madame Alexandra Kollontai, Russian ambassador to Sweden; Pehr Svhufud, former president of Finland, both members of the Finnish commission which negotiated with Josef Stalin in vain just prior to the outbreak of the Russo-Finnish war. Hedin, it is believed is acting as Germany's representative in the discussions.

BLAST VICTIM STAGES RALLY

Youth Now Given Chance to Recover From Burns.

Showing some improvement during the last 24 hours, it was believed today that David Nelson, 19, of 26 Prescott street, who is in General hospital with severe body burns, might recover.

The youth sustained second degree burns about the face, neck, arms and hands, Feb. 29 in an explosion that rocked a north side residence. His condition today was reported as "fair" by hospital attendants who said he showed slight improvement.

Young Nelson has already received three blood transfusions as physicians fought to save his life. He is the son of Mrs. M. W. Tripplett, who suffered minor burns in the explosion.

FACES LIQUOR 'FIXING' CHARGE

Man Arrested Here Accused of 'Shaking Down' Dealers In Upper Sandusky.

Arrested in Mansfield earlier this week, William E. Cahill, 49, of Columbus, self-styled executive officer of the "State Liquor Dealers, Inc.," was to be arraigned in Upper Sandusky today on charges of receiving money in connection with the issuance of liquor permits, liquor department officials said.

Dispatches from Upper Sandusky said liquor authorities charged Cahill with being a "fixer" who pressed operators of restaurants selling liquor and beer to "join" his organization if they wanted to keep in good standing and not have their licenses revoked.

Cahill was arrested by Mansfield police on warrant issued by the sheriff of Wyandot county who forwarded a description of the man and his automobile.

Officers found the car parked on a street here early this week and towed the machine to a garage. He was arrested when he called at police headquarters.

Wyandot authorities said Cahill operated in Mansfield, Lima, Kenton, Upper Sandusky, Chillicothe, Wilmington and Washington C. H.

WORLD WAITS HITLER SPEECH ON HEROES' DAY

Expect Momentous Declaration From Fuehrer on Europe's Two Conflicts.

RIBBENTROP IN ROME

Finland's Former President Also to Be In Italian Capital, Report.

BULLETIN

Rome—(INS)—The all-embracing nature of German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop's forthcoming visit to Rome was emphasized today with disclosure that he has requested an audience with Pope Pius.

BERLIN — With Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop en route to Rome, the stage was set today for some possibly momentous declaration of great consequence in Europe's two wars when Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler delivers a speech to the nation tomorrow.

The fuehrer will make an address, an official announcement said, as part of the annual Heroes' day ceremonies in Berlin.

While there was no advance indication as to the nature of his talk, yesterday's diplomatic developments on all diplomatic fronts led to belief that some statement bearing on the Russo-Finnish conflict as well as Germany's war against the Anglo-French Allies might be anticipated.

Probably at the very moment his trusted foreign minister is in conference with Premier Mussolini and Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano in Rome, the fuehrer will speak in the famous old Berlin army on the Unter Den Linden, and a regimental parade will follow.

Present in Berlin at the time or en route to Rome himself will be Pehr Evind Svinhufvud, former president of Finland, whose arrival in the German capital yesterday served to emphasize Germany's interest in cessation of hostilities on the Russo-Finnish front.

Svinhufvud, in an audience with Von Ribbentrop yesterday, asked Germany's good offices in obtaining reasonable peace terms for Finland from Soviet Russia as requested steps to forestall what he considered the imminent possibility of Allied intervention in Scandinavia.

HAS AMBITIONS

Lucas Wants to Grow, Seeks to Annex 29 Acres, 4 Houses.

The village of Lucas has ambitions to grow bigger—by 29 acres and four houses.

County commissioners today had received a request from Atty. Van C. Cook, the village solicitor, for the annexation of three parcels of land totaling 29.18 acres to the village.

Commissioners approved the application and set a public hearing on it for May 10 at the courthouse. If there is no organized opposition to the proposal at the hearing, the annexation will be approved. The Lucas council has already approved the proposal.

Laying east and north of the present village limits, the properties are owned by Harvey Wallace and George Bright. There are four houses on the land, Commissioner Guy Stewart of Lucas said.

As Peace Moves Show Progress

STOCKHOLM — Russian-Finnish peace negotiations believed to have shifted to Moscow, Dr. Juhu Justi Paesikivi, Finnish negotiator, reported on way to either Moscow or Berlin.

BERLIN — Momentous declaration dealing with Europe's two wars possible in Hitler speech as Germany observes Heroes' Day tomorrow.

ROME—Italy prepares to receive German Foreign Minister Joachin Von Ribbentrop. The visit was called "important" in Rome but Italians did not regard it occasion for alarm.

COPENHAGEN—Finnish representatives already en route to Riga, Latvia for peace conference with Russians, report says.

REDS GAIN IN VIIPURI BATTLE

Gets 'Restricted Foothold' on Northwest Shore of Finland's Third City.

(By Associated Press)

HELSINKI—Russia's Red army, beating across the ice has gained "a restricted foothold" on the northwest shore of the bay of Viipuri from which it can threaten complete encirclement of beleaguered Viipuri and outflanking of Finland's vital Mannerheim line.

Despite punishing Finnish air attacks against the troops, trucks, tanks and sledges driving over frozen bay, the high command admitted the invaders had forced a landing and captured "some islands" from which to base further drives on Finland's third city.

The great battle for Viipuri continued with undiminished intensity in the midst of efforts from outside to find a basis for Finnish-Russian peace.

The advance of the Russians on the northwest shore of Viipuri bay produced a grave threat to Viipuri's coastal communications with the rest of Finland, menacing the Finnish defenders of the city from behind.

To the east of Viipuri, the army announced, "all enemy attacks were repulsed" with the Russians suffering loss of men and "at least eighteen tanks and several guns."

Extensive Finnish successes along the eastern front were reported at the same time.

The army said a Russian detachment, whose size was not given, was "completely annihilated" at Lavajarvi.

HURT AS AUTO, TRUCK COLLIDE

Bellville Man Only One Injured In Accident On Route 13.

One person suffered minor injuries in one of two accidents near Bellville on route 13 early today.

Ray Staats of Bellville, a passenger in a car driven by Roland B. Garber, 56, R. D. 1, Bellville, was hurt, according to highway patrolmen. Garber's car collided with a truck driven by Edward Compston, 43, R. D. 4, Mansfield at 12:50 a. m. today. Garber told officers he was blinded by the lights of the truck.

Hugh C Hartman, jr., 25, Newark, escaped injuries when his car turned over several times in the yard of the Alfred T. Leedy home, R. D. 1, Bellville, at 12:30 a. m. today. Patrolmen said Hartman failed to make a curve in the road.

PAYS IN EGGS

Bridegroom Offers 'Barter' For Wedding Ceremony.

PINEVILLE, Ky.—(AP)—County Judge Hopkins completed a marriage ceremony for a young couple — and waited expectantly.

"I'm sorry I haven't any money to pay you," said the embarrassed bridegroom. "But I'll bring you some eggs—four dozen Saturday and four more dozen the next week."

The judge accepted the offer.

NO ARGUMENT

Man Who Failed to Feed Parking Meter Was Meter Salesman.

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(AP)—A motorist paid—with a smile—a $1 fine for failure to feed a parking meter.

"Most people argue," said the surprised police judge.

"No argument," replied the defendant. He identified himself as the salesman who had sold the city its new parking meters.

REPORT FINN ENVOY ON WAY TO SEE REDS

Sweden Finishes Role as Go-Between; Ministers Get Set For Final Negotiations.

RUSSIA STARTED MOVE

Soviet Initiated Movement With Heavy Demands on Finland, Claim.

(By Associated Press)

STOCKHOLM — Negotiations toward a Russian-Finnish peace appeared today to have shifted to Moscow, with Sweden's role in the matter more or less finished.

Attention was centered on the whereabouts of Dr. Juhu Justi Paasikivi, Finnish negotiator who was reported to have left Stockholm and was believed already in Berlin, or en route to Moscow.

Paasikivi led the Finnish delegation which unsuccessfully negotiated in Moscow before the war began last Nov. 30.

There were rumors that Riga, Latvia, might be the center of final negotiations, and that a Finnish delegation already was en route there to meet Soviet representatives.

These reports developed as efforts to settle the undeclared war in Finland drew speedily toward a climactic stage with the probable outcome still shrouded by indecision and official secrecy.

It became known here that Russia had demanded fulfillment of her terms before even accepting an armistice, however.

Sweden Not Mediator.

Although officially confirmed here that Sweden had acted as go-between for Russia and Finland in preliminary negotiations, there was strong insistence that the Stockholm government was in no way acting as mediator.

It was stated further that the initiative toward negotiations came from Russia and not Sweden; that this Scandinavian country did no more, in effect, than to lend its "front parlor" for establishing contacts and for presentation of Moscow's terms.

With the Russians and Finns now in touch with each other, it is believed any actual decision toward settlement will be made in Moscow or, possibly, Riga.

In some quarters, Germany is regarded the actual "behind-the-scenes" mediator, and increasing

RECALLS JURY

Prosecutor to Submit Tests By Lie Detector.

CHARDON—(AP)—After Joseph Battista of Canton and three other persons submitted to lie detector tests, Prosecutor Harold K. Bostwick today called a special Geagua county grand jury to reconvene Monday to resume investigation of the Armistice day wounding of Robert R. Fenwick, 32-year-old farmer.

Battista, 35-year-old salesman, pleaded innocent to a charge of shooting to kill and is held in jail in lieu of $30,000 bond.

Bostwick announced several "important angles" had developed but declined to elaborate. Howard G. Robinson, special investigator of Newark, O., assisted with the tests.

Fenwick was shot in the abdomen and legs after ordering three hunters from his farm.

CATS LIVE ON

One Is 21 Years Old and His Brother Is 20.

MOLINE, Ill. —(AP)—The Harold Anderson family is about ready to believe that the cats that live in their home have nine lives. One cat lived for 20 years but his brother, Michael, has just observed his 21st birthday anniversary. He is part persian, part alley, the owners said, and the oldest cat in the city.

News-Journal Menu for Sunday, Next Week

During February, the News-Journal circulation hit an all-time "high water mark" of more than 20,250 subscribers; but that doesn't mean there is any intention of resting on the oars or riding with the tide.

In fact, there's a whirlpool of interesting features ahead which will spin right through the Sunday edition and on into next week.

SUNDAY

John Simpson Preview.

Plumb in the vortex of features whirling into view in the Sunday edition is an array of pictures of the interior of the new John Simpson Junior High School building with an accompanying descriptive story by Virgil A. Stanfield. The building will be formally dedicated next Friday.

Forewarned, Forearmed.

You've been hearing a lot about those census questions you're going to be asked. Well, tomorrow morning you can read them and pick your own epithet. We've read 'em and we give up.

Girl Scouts Celebrate.

With a picturization of some of their activities, there comes a story about Mansfield Girl Scouts who this week will observe the 28th birthday of Girl Scouting in the United States. Jane Williams tells you the story, as she also brings you the second in her series of articles on What Mansfield Makes. This second article is full of surprising things about bathtubs, electrical equipment destined for far-Pacific installation, and abrasive steel products.

NEXT WEEK

Whither the War?

Sumner Welles had to go to Europe to find out what course events are likely to take with the advent of spring, but you only have to pick up next week's copies of the News-Journal.

What hope is there for peace? Will the war spread to new fronts? What is happening to the social and economic structure of Europe. What is happening to the minds of the people over there?

Our Town.

Physically, at least, what makes a town are its streets and buildings. Detailed data on Mansfield's thoroughfares, its homes, factories, business structures and public buildings has been piled up steadily for the past twelve months by workers on the WPA Real Property Survey, a $30,000 project. Beginning Monday, the information secured by the survey will be brought to you in a series of instructive articles.

G. O. P. Maps Reply to Roosevelt's Farm Plan Defense

FARMERS TOLD JUSTICE GOAL NOT ATTAINED

President Says New Deal Has Made Progress In Driving For Economic Justice.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Republicans planned today an answer to President Roosevelt's defense of New Deal farm policies in a bid for the farm vote in the November elections.

Mr. Roosevelt, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and Postmaster General James A. Farley joined last night in a broadcast designed to vindicate Democratic attempts to solve the problem of dwindling farm incomes and commodity surpluses.

The Republican national committee later announced that Rep. Clifford R. Hope, (R., Kan.) chairman of the G. O. P.'s congressional committee studying farm issues will reply in a national radio address next Tuesday night.

Speaking to an estimated 500,000 farmers gathered at 2,000 rallies throughout the country in observance of the New Deal's first farm conference, Mr. Roosevelt admitted that the agricultural workers have yet to reach their goal of social and economic justice.

However, he said, his administration has enabled them to progress toward that goal.

Despite Mr. Roosevelt's contention that his remarks were non-political, most observers felt that he had accepted the challenge laid down by Republicans in congress and by prospective Republican presidential candidates in mid-western talks. He carefully skirted mention of the fight, confining himself to a review of the accomplishments during his administration.

"The farmers have had a long, hard struggle to get laws and programs which give them an opportunity to obtain economic and social justice, to make it possible for them to conserve the good earth which, next to our people and our tradition of freedom, is our greatest heritage," he said.

"I am happy in the thought that American farmers part way along that road, even though they have not reached the goal."

He repeated previous warnings by administration experts that if war-troubled economic conditions cause the disappearance of export markets all agriculture is bound to suffer.

SPEEDS FARM BILL

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The senate appropriations committee is expected to send to the senate today a $958,000,000 agriculture department supply bill which includes $212,000,000 for farm parity payments that the house refused to approve.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, (D., Ga.) chairman of the subcommittee which refused to keep the bill down to its house-approval total of $749,561,000, was confident that the full committee would sustain the increase when it meets today.

The senate group reversed the house which had sliced from the bill provision for parity payments surplus commodities and farm tenancy.

Says She'll Sleep Well After Firing Into Rival's Back

COLUMBIA, S. C. — (AP) — Answering all questions with "I don't remember" or "I can't tell you," Mrs. Mae (Masie) Walker Burleson, 51-year-old artist and one time suffragette leader, was detained by police today after she shot and killed her former husband's second wife.

The matronly Galveston, Tex., divorcee, hiding an old rusty revolver in a black bag which matched her modish apparel, walked into a hotel cafeteria at the lunch hour yesterday, and shot in the back Mrs. Richard C. Burleson, wife of a U. S. army colonel stationed here.

Coolly, without a word, the first Mrs. Burleson then followed a hotel official who escorted her to an office, where she waited until police arrived. Then, for hours, she refused to divulge her name, and kept mumbling something about wanting to see her mother, who died two years ago.

Late last night when told the questioning was over and that she could retire, Mrs. Burleson said, "I shall sleep well tonight." She was held in the woman's section of the city jail with a matron in attendance.

In divorce litigation in the Texas courts a few years ago Mrs. Burleson named as correspondent the woman who became her husband's second wife.

Up and Down THE STREET

Howard N. Silcott, 418 Marion avenue, one of the most consistently ardent anglers of Richland county, is draggin' 'em in at Auburndale, Fla. Last Saturday he brought in 30 pounds of fine bass, the largest of which was six and a half pounds. He has caught more than 100 nice bass this season, according to the Auburndale paper. He has been using a "River Runt Spook lure" for bait and does his fishing in Lake Jessie.

Tonight will be quite a night for Vern Hoffman, Mansfield high basketball coach. Last year while coaching at Bellevue, Vern saw his prides defeated by the Tygers in the district tournament finals. Tonight's scene in the Sandusky finals will be similar—Mansfield against Bellevue, but Vern will be on our side this time. Vern will be pulling just as hard for a win for the Tygers as he did against them last year, and it is his hope that he will be a bit more fortunate tonight. The Tygers, you remember, knocked Bellevue out of the district title with a last-second basket last winter.

Vic Sowers secretary for the board of park commissioners, who is compiling data on the history of the Mansfield park system, ran into a little snag on the why and wherefors of the four cannons in Central park. Sowers says the commissioners are considering identification plates for the cannon providing they can find out where they came from and how they got to Mansfield. Can anyone help?

Back home today from a Florida vacation, Probate Judge C. J. Anderson was telling his fishermen friends about catching his first barracuda in the Gulf of Mexico. The fish, which weighed about 15 pounds, belongs to the shark family and is one of the most vicious fighters of them all. Judge Anderson said he used a wire line to catch the big one and had to have help to get it in the boat. One of the city's most enthusiastic fishermen, Judge Anderson usually goes on two fishing expeditions a year, in the south in winter and to the north woods in the summer.

DEFENSE OPENS IN MURDER CASE

Calls Character Witnesses In Trial of Student Held As Holdup Slayer.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Defense counsel for John L. McCormick, 21-year-old university student on trial for murder, today drafted a list of character witnesses to present to the jury of nine women and three men on Monday.

The defense opened its case yesterday with testimony by the youth's gray-haired mother, Mrs. J. Woods McCormick. After she told a story of family troubles, Common Pleas Judge Samuel E. Kramer recessed the trial for the week-end.

Joseph I. Winslow, assistant defense counsel, said witnesses would include Dr. John G. Bowman, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh where McCormick was a senior, and Vincent W. Lanfear, university dean of men. The defendant's father also is expected to take the stand.

The defense contends that McCormick was temporarily insane last January when he robbed Western Union Telegraph company offices in East Liverpool, O., and Fairmont, W. Va., and killed Theodore Nichols, special guard, at the Cleveland office. Nichols was shot during the holdup here Jan. 8.

Mrs. McCormick testified that she and her husband moved out of their Pittsburgh home in an effort to bring John "to his senses." She told of a series of arguments with the youth and his strange behavior which she said prompted her to advise him to "see a psychiatrist."

Auditor Reports City Has $133,000 In Cash on Hand March 1.

Kelley's report showed the general fund overdrawn $5,683. He said however, that the fund was in no "serious" circumstances since no sales tax receipts or liquor license fees had been received from the state yet this year.

The report showed $56,435 in the waterworks fund, $8,608 in the garbage fund, $21,982 in the sanitary sewer fund and $52,206 in the specials fund.

SPECIAL PROSECUTOR IN DETROIT GRAFT QUIZ DIES OF OVERWORK

(By Associated Press)

DETROIT — Special Prosecutor William C. Buckingham of the graft-gambling jury, a victim of what his physician called "strain and overwork" during the months of investigation from which sprang sensational charges of official corruption, died early today after a stroke.

Buckingham, 42, a chief figure in the gathering and presentation of evidence in the case which has rocked Wayne county with indictment after indictment, collapsed at his Dearborn home last night. He died at 12:25 a. m. in a Detroit hospital.

The death of the vigorous attorney, a right hand man to Prosecutor Chester P. O'Hara in developing charges of wrongdoing against Prosecutor Duncan M. McCrea and others, came at a moment when the case had reached even another clamix—the suspension of McCrea by Governor Dickinson and promise of a fight over it from the former.

Yesterday afternoon Buckingham, who associates said had worked almost ceaselessly in the six-month period of inquiry, had complained of feeling faint.

During the current hearing for McCrea and co-defendants on gambling "protection" charges, Buckingham had done much of the state's cross-examination work.

Meanwhile, beleaguered by indictments and an ouster move, Prosecutor McCrea stood his ground amid a tumult of new charges and challenged the authority of Governor Dickinson.

McCrea, showing again the bold front which has marked his response to a storm of charges, refused to accept Governor Dickinson's suspension order and insisted he would retain his office "until proof has been established that I have done something wrong."

Diagnostic Clinic Discovers 2 New Cases In County.

Two new cases of tuberculosis have been discovered in Richland county, a report of the monthly diagnostic chest clinic held at General hospital yesterday under the direction of Dr. T. L. Bliss of Akron, disclosed.

Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, said the new cases bring to seven the total number discovered in the county since Jan. 1.

Of the 18 suspects examined yesterday, two showed a positive test and the other 16, four of which were from the county and 12 from the city, showed a negative test.

Both of the new cases were recommended to the county commissioners for sanitarium care.

WOMAN KILLER JAILED, TELLS ERRATIC STORY

Claims Slain Woman 'Sent My Mother to Grave' as Police Launch Probe.

(By United Press)

COLUMBIA, S. C. — Police got only sullen, incoherent statements today from Mrs. Mazie Walker Burleson who shot to death the socially-prominent woman who succeeded her as the wife of Col. Richard C. Burleson, army artillery expert.

"Call my mother," she said again and again. But her mother had been dead for more than a year and in a letter to the slain woman three months ago, the first Mrs. Burleson had accused her of "sending my mother to the grave in grief."

The shooting in the Hotel Jefferson cafeteria yesterday afternoon while the second Mrs. Burleson was eating a late lunch alone, climaxed a prolonged domestic tragery in the life of Col. Burleson, chief artillery adviser of the sixth division of the army stationed at Camp Jackson, near here.

Feillow officers said the first Mrs. Burleson had been an eccentric, tyranical woman who had nearly ruined her husband's career and had gotten herself barred from army posts.

Col. Burleson had tolerated her "erratic ways" from the time of their marriage in 1908, until their separation in 1936. Since then, she had been living in Galveston, Tex., where her family was prominent. She told police a vague story of having left Galveston "on a truck bound for California with some artists." She said she "took my mother's silver tea service with me." She could not say how she got here from California or what had happened to the tea service.

Col. Burleson married his second wife in 1938, a year after his first wife obtained a divorce in a counter-suit to his divorce petition.

The second Mrs. Burleson was eating her dessert when Mrs. Mazie Walker Burleson walked up behind her and shot her in the back with a rusty, old revolver which she held concealed in a handbag.

Garner Tops Coolidge In Matter of Silence as to His Presidential Campaign

—By JANE WILLIAMS

THE STRANGE presidential campaign of John Nance Garner leaves one wondering whether he is emulating Greta Garbo or the Sphinx of the White House. Garner used a 44-word speech last December to announce his intention of becoming a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president.

Since then he has out-sphinxed the president himself. Garner hasn't made a single speech, hasn't made a statement, hasn't outlined a platform, hasn't made a bid for delegates, and so far as anyone knows, doesn't intend to. Even Silent Cal Coolidge was a chatterbox by comparison.

To Americans everywhere Garner has come to be a symbol of conservative opposition to the present administration and the New Deal, not because of anything he has said in the past few months, but because he had the courage throughout the past three years to stand firmly by his own convictions when they were diametrically opposed to those of his chief.

Garner may or may not stand a chance of being nominated, since the president does not approve of him as a candidate, but if he is, you can be sure he goes into the ring on his own two feet and not on the coat-tail of the president.

THE ST. PAUL Dispatch gives the only key I have seen in print to the pronunciation of Finnish names, and when you know the key, the words aren't so difficult. There are a great many Finns in St. Paul and throughout Minnesota.

All Finnish names are pronounced with the accent on the first syllable. The funny endings of their geographical names give the key to the meaning. "Salmi" means sound as in Puget Sound. Thus Suomassalmi is really Suoma Sound in English. "Jarvi" is lake and "jodi" is river, with the j's pronounced as y. The Finnish "k" has the sound of our "g" as in "get."

Add that all together and Helsinki is certainly getting a kicking around from the radio commentators. Instead of Hel-SINK-ki, it should be HEL-sing-gi.

Anyway, that's what I read in the paper.

SO FAR my plans for Leap Year romances, as launched when I carried a list of Mansfield's most eligible bachelors and their qualifications in the New Year's day edition of the News-Journal, haven't brought very satisfactory results. But I'm still hoping. One of the bachelors confessed blushingly this week that he might have "interesting news" for me ere the summer wanes. And another told me confidentially the other day that he had resorted to a paper clip to hold his suspenders together.

CIO Chieftain John L. Lewis, works 11 months and relaxes one, and when he works, he works, and when he relaxes—boy! he's a new man. The bushy-browed labor leader esconced himself in a $38-a-day suite at the Nautilus hotel in Miami, Fla.—where a dish of rhubarb costs you 40 cents—got himself a fancy manicure, and then relaxed.

So thoroughly did he relax that he refused to see the ink-stained minions of the press, according to the Miami News. They explained to him that they worked for a living, that interviewing celebrities was a part of their jobs, and would he please give them just a few minutes of his valuable time?

So wrothy was Mr. Lewis—again, according to the Miami Daily News—that he complained to the management of the hotel and said he didn't want to be annoyed nor would he permit the hotel to exploit his famous name for its own publicity. What the management told Mr. Lewis about his famous name and their publicity sent him forth in high dudgeon to betake himself to the sun-kissed beach in a low-slung black limousine, operated by a private chauffeur in a gold-braid bedecked uniform.

The moral of this story is that those newspaper people were worms. Because not a one of them reminded Mr. Lewis that they belonged to the Newspaper GGuild which is an affiliate of the CIO, and that their dues helped to pay for his $38 suite and liveried chauffeur.

COULD anyone read the stories this week of the sex maniacs who murdered a Richland county child and a 75-year-old Columbus woman, and not believe that rape and criminal assault should be among the offenses punishable by death? Even in cases where the victim is not killed, the animal who perpetrates the deed should be exterminated in the electric chair. There is never any hesitancy in killing a mad dog. You don't kill the dog to punish it, but merely to make sure that it will not endanger human beings. A sex maniac is a thousand times more objectionable than a mad dog, yet we send him to prison for a few years and then turn him loose again on women and children.

Richland county has been overrun with this sort of offense in recent years. Why doesn't the next representative from this county sponsor a bill in the state assembly to make rape and criminal attack a capital offense? I'm positive he would have the backing of most of the voters, regardless of party affiliations.

POULSON MOVES TO GRAB PARTY CONTROL FROM SAWYER'S HANDS

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — An attempt by Francis W. Poulson, former state Democratic chairman, to wrest party control in Ohio from National Committeeman Charles Sawyer was seen today in a movement to qualify a second slate of delegate candidates to the Democratic national convention.

Reports persisted that it was a Paulson-headed group which obtained delegate petitions from the secretary of state yesterday despite Poulson's denial that he urged Postmaster General James A. Farley to seek Ohio delegates in opposition to a slate nominally pledged to Sawyer as "favorite son."

A spokesman for the group said that should Farley decline to enter the Ohio field, delegates would be nominally pledged to a "favorite son" other than Sawyer although actually supporting a Roosevelt third term, if the president desires it. Sawyer-pledged delegates also would be for Roosevelt's renomination.

Poulson's friends said he had decided not to seek the senatorial nomination and that if a majority of convention delegates selected by him should win, Sawyer's party leadership might be wrecked.

Former Gov. George White's decision whether to enter the Democratic gubernatorial race was awaited, meanwhile, with keen interest. He arrived here by plane from Washington yesterday and conferred with party leaders but issued no statement.

A bloc of Democrats has been urging White's candidacy in the hope of uniting sufficient party support to defeat former Gov. Martin L. Davey who is seeking renomination at the May 14 primary.

White was said to favor, instead, withdrawal of five of the seven party gubernatorial candidates, now in the field as a means of consolidating Davey opposition, but the plan was regarded as unlikely to materalize.

Harold G. Moiser, former congressman-at-large, has filed his declaration of candidacy and efforts to obtain withdrawals from William J. Kennedy, former secretary of state, and Herbert S. Duffy, former attorney general, were unavailing.

One of 3 Serving Out Liquor Fine Released on Bond

Roy Mason, 32, Mansfield, one of three persons held in the county jail for payment of fines and costs in liquor law violations, was released last evening after he paid $25 on his fine and posted property bond guaranteeing payment of the rest, or about $230.

He was released at 6 p. m. by Sheriff E. P. Long on an order from municipal court, showing that bond had been provided.

Mason's release removed the necessity for an insolvency hearing for him and Attys. Earl Gaar and Charles Spreng, his counsel, said they would drop proceedings to obtain his release by that method.

Sent to jail last Oct. 25 to serve out fines totaling $400 for the illegal sale and possession of liquor, Mason served 108 days before he was released Feb. 9 on an insolvency application filed in probate court.

He was returned to jail last Saturday on an order of execution from municipal court to serve out the rest of the fine.

Probate Judge C. J. Anderson, who will hear an insolvency petition for Mrs. Dorothy Williams, another of the liquor law violators seeking her release, returned last night from Florida, but he said today that no date for the hearing had been set.

DISCUSSES 'MAN'

Lesson-Sermon Will be Read at Scientist Church Sunday.

"Man," is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The Golden Text is: "O man greatly beloved, fear not: peace be unto thee, be strong, yea, be strong" (Daniel 10:19).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. . . . So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them" (Genesis 1:26,27).

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, MARCH 9, 1940.

Drive carefully tomorrow—and pass the idea along to the young folks in the family.

Hitler expresses belief that America isn't neutral—and if he's referring to individuals he seems to have the right idea.

A New York village finds itself with a PWA bridge to which there are no approaches—but that's another one which you needn't cross till you come to it.

Potential Peace-Makers

ONE of the interesting things about Sumner Welles' diplomatic visit to the heads of government in Italy, Germany, France and Britain was his return to Rome for another conference with Premier Mussolini, before starting home.

The Duce himself is considered ambitious for the role of European peace-maker. If he and President Roosevelt can co-operate in that role without any undue effort on either side to monopolize the credit, they might bring honor to themselves and their countries by arranging a peace conference when the time is right for it.

This is an obvious opportunity for the heads of the two most powerful countries not engaged in war. And such opportunity will exist as long as both remain at peace.

American statesmen, of course, can give no assurances except a disinterested willingness to help set the stage for a peace conference. The rest would be up to the belligerents and such of their European neighbors as they are willing to admit to their councils.

Tragedy Brings New Warning

THE MURDER of a 9-year-old school girl, followed by the suicide of her assailant, is among the most shocking tragedies this vicinity has experienced in recent years.

Something of this kind, however, might have been expected to follow in the wake of the series of offenses against children that have been committed in this vicinity within the past year.

The power of suggestion apparently exerts a considerable influence on the brutes capable of crimes such as this and it is regrettable that some better way has not yet been found to disclose this type of persons and segregate them before they have caused irreparable harm to innocent children.

Mistaken ideas that all animals bearing the shape of men are entitled to be regarded as "human beings" are largely responsible for delay in enacting legislation which would, to some extent at least, prevent the unrestricted propagation of congenitally subnormal and mentally defective children who drift readily into degeneracy or crimes against persons or property.

Occurrences such as this also emphasize the importance of closely scrutinizing the past record of strangers before they are accepted by a family or community in any position of trust or responsibility, such as gave opportunity for this week's tragedy in the southern Richland county home.

Earlier experiences in Mansfield have provided convincing proof that sex perverts sometimes appear in the most unexpected guises, and that it is common practice for such persons, when driven out of one city or community, to move along to some other place where they are temporarily accepted and find opportunity to operate for a time before being detected and either arrested or ordered to leave the city.

Under present conditions it cannot be too strongly urged that parents and teachers co-operate to the fullest extent in preventing any more children from being lured away from school, and that city, county and state authorities continue with the utmost vigilance in their efforts to apprehend molesters of children, and to maintain the closest possible surveillance over persons whose conduct subjects them to suspicion as potential offenders.

Battle Hymn For Finland

KERMIT ROOSEVELT, son of Theodore the First, has assumed British citizenship and gone to head an international expeditionary force to fight for Finland. But he remains much more American than British or Finnish. That martial adventure would doubtless please his famous father. And so would the war song that Colonel Kermit and his international brigade are going to sing as they march against the Russian invaders.

It is the famous "Battle Hymn of the Republic," which Theodore the First thought should have been our national anthem. It is great poetry and great music, and a wonderful tune, easy to learn and grand for men to roar out on any occasion, but especially effective as a marching song.

The Finnish army may need moral as well as material strengthening by the time Colonel Kermit's brigade reaches the front. It should raise their flagging spirits to hear that "Glory, glory, hallelujah! Our God is marching on!" roared out by a band of recruits from other lands.

Confusing Truck Lights

MANY PEOPLE have wondered at big trucks roaring through the night lit up like Christmas trees in many colors. They make a fascinating sight, but rather startling when they suddenly loom in the darkness over the edge of a hill or around a curve.

The Christmas-tree effect is explained. The idea isn't ornamentation. Long-distance trucks carry the red, yellow, blue, purple, green and crystal lights because all of these colors, separately or in combination, are required in various states through which they pass.

The bureau of standards of the federal department of commerce is now trying to simplify that color display through more uniform state laws. It is another example of state legislation running riot in regulative acts. States are "sovereign" but not absolutely so. In matters of interstate commerce especially they need to adopt more uniform rules and procedures.

Everybody's Writing a Book

THERE seems to be a rising tide of books. Production in February, by all American publishers, reached the total of 1,023 titles. Of those, 805 were new works and 218 were new editions. They represent an increase of 147 over the output in February, 1939.

It is pleasanter to learn about such a quantity of books than it would be to read them all.

According to a California professor, kissing kills germs—but that, after all, will probably remain a secondary consideration.

Enjoy quiet while you can—the campaign will start soon.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Who does not know of the great Nijinsky, about whom so much has been spoken and written. Those who made a custom of studying or following the ballet of 20 years ago are quite sure that no one has even approximated his talents. It was claimed for him that he could leap higher than anyone else, and when he had attained his maximum height, that in some mysterious and inexplicable fashion he could break the speed of his fall and just sort of drift back toward the floor. I have heard men swear this. They had seen this with their own eyes. Science says such a feat is impossible and that nothing that isn't powered by some force, or body, can affect gravity.

* * *

BUT this strange talent was claimed for Nijinsky. . . . Nijinsky, who went mad and was committed to an insane asylum in Switzerland. For 20 years he has been in this half-world, sometimes, seemingly, fighting his way back to the very threshold of sanity—but never quite making it. Some time ago a fine modern dancer visited him. There was music and this young worshipper of the old master began to dance, to leap in the old Nijinsky fashion. Suddenly a strang excitement seemed to glow in his eyes, and he too began to leap high. But, that quickly, the light died, and Nijinsky was no longer interested.

I mention this because Nijinsky came to America about 20 years ago . . . not as an artist, but as a prisoner of war—on parole. He was paroled from an Austro-Hungarian concentration camp.

Well, Europe is at war again, and Nijinsky is coming back to America too. . . . But not because of the war. He would have been here now if war hadn't disrupted the sailing schedules and so many other things in Europe. . . . They say he will remain here the rest of his life.

MOST nurses wear white uniforms, but not the ones in Henry street. They are different. They wear blue uniforms, probably because they are in the open so much. I do not know that this is the reason, but it seems logical because they go into the slums and into every part of the city, whether you have money or no money at all.

I think a lot of the women who devote their careers to the Henry Street Settlement. There is not an hour of the day or night that some of them aren't bringing comfort, and cleanliness, into homes somewhere in Manhattan. In the last year they have made more than 500,000 visits in the boroughs of New York. They cleanse and compose the limbs of the aged deceased. They assist in the delivery of babies. They feed and nurse and care for children. If you are 40 or four, 90 or nine, it makes no difference. If you have money to pay, that is well and good, for money is essential, even to settlement homes, but if you have no money, that is all right too, and the service you receive will be none the less thorough or sincere. Last year, too, they proved good Samaritans to 90,000 people of 30 different nationalities who were not physically ill but who needed perhaps the encouragement of warm, good food and a pat on the back.

The Henry street nurses have been going about the city, making this a cleaner, healthier, brighter place to live for 46 years. It seems to me that they more than merit the good will and the active support of the rest of the Seven Million.

Political Stalemate In Congress

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — There is a stalemate on Capital Hill. In fact the administration decided last session should be just that. The opposition knows all about the decision, but it is powerless to do anything about it.

The truth, which was realized before adjournment last summer, is that the administration does not have the votes to put anything new through the house of representatives, and the opposition does not have the votes to repeal any existing law—or for that matter to amend one.

That is the reason there will be no amendments to the National Labor Relations Act this session. Neither those desired by the administration, which are trivial, nor those desired by the opposition, which might be sweeping. And in between these two the amendments desired by the American Federation of Labor will also fall into the discard.

That is the reason there will be no amendments to the wage-hour law—neither the inclusion of other groups, as desired by the White House, nor those intended to eliminate useless bookkeeping both by firms and the government, as desired by the opposition.

* * *

THE administration can block almost anything it wants to hold up. The opposition has the same power. It is true that the reciprocal trade agreements making power of the administration will be extended, despite violent opposition. But this cuts across party lines. A great many Republicans favor it. A few Democrats oppose it. Nobody knows, for instance, what the attitude of the Republican candidate for president will be on it. Of the three leading G. O. P. candidates for the nomination, Thomas E. Dewey has not expressed himself whereas Senator Robert A. Taft and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg have widely different notions.

Apparently the biggest battle is over appropriations, but it is by no means so simple to discover what the administration REALLY wants in any of the test votes.

It will be recalled that President Roosevelt, in submitting his budget, called for new taxes calculated to raise $460,000,000. Nobody on Capitol Hill thinks the president actually wants those new taxes BEFORE election. They think he actually wants congress to cut $460,000,000 from his budget in order to make them unnecessary.

Of course he objects to every cut—that is to put the onus on congress with the people directly affected by that particular cut. But there is no way of being sure when he is just attaching the blame label and when he is really annoyed.

Obviously it would be next to impossible to get any two people in the country who could go over the whole budget and reach a perfect agreement as to where cuts totalling nearly a half billion dollars should be made. Each would have to yield a little, here and there, in order for the two to approve the result.

* * *

BUT congress is definitely determined that there shall be no new taxes at this session, and it is just as determined that there must be drastic enough cuts in the budget to prevent the necessity of boosting that forty-five billion dollar debt limit before election.

There are some Republicans frank enough to admit that even if a Republican president were elected it would be necessary to raise that debt limit NEXT year. Those who think economies sufficient to prevent an increase in the debt—or in short to balance the budget—before the debt exceeds forty-five billions are in the minority. Probably they would never be able to muster the votes for the economies they approve.

Meanwhile, decisions are postponed until the people have spoken.

Timely Editorial

Federal Advertising.

Not since the hectic World war days when Liberty Loan appeals or posters urging public co-operation to conserve food and the like were on every billboard has there been such a rash of advertising and propaganda by the federal government. With a difference, however. The war time publicity was for the most part donated by the newspapers, magazines and other advertising mediums as a patriotic service.

This isn't true of the current crop. Every one of the ads picturing a smiling, elderly man or woman holding his social security check, every one of the plugs for the F. H. A. loans, every one of the posters or letters ballyhooing the government's baby bonds, are paid for.

And since the money must come from government sources it is obvious that indirectly but none the less truly the individual taxpayer is financing this publicizing of the New Deal administration's paternalistic ventures whether he approves of it or not.—Columbus Dispatch.

Two Wedded Souls Aren't One!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

HARRIET'S heart is broken. Again. She has just discovered that her husband lied to her.

After loving and trusting him and giving up the best years of her youth to him, and calling him at the office about five times a day to give him orders, what do you suppose that miserable pup up and did?

Told her over the phone that he was in conference and couldn't possibly go out and help her choose the new linoleum. Then, when she walked in on him fifteen minutes later, she found him sitting in on a little game of poker with Fred Collins and a couple of stenogs!

Which most of my female readers will immediately admit is enough to bust any good, true, refined lady wife's heart.

But, if it's my last act, I'm going to say that in my opinion, IT SERVED HER RIGHT.

If I had a wife (or a husband) who was always tagging around after me and keeping tabs on me and otherwise pestering me, I'D LIE TOO.

That isn't dishonesty. It's merely self-preservation. And if there is any place a Self needs preserving, it's in matrimony.

There was never a bigger piece of hokum than the theory that two wedded souls become as one.

No power on earth can—or should—make your soul a part of any other soul. Nor give you the right to boss or heckle any other soul.

We DON'T own our husbands, and they don't own us. We're separate and distinct individualities, united in one of the forms of partnership of which humans are capable, which particular form we call marriage.

It's somewhat different from the other forms, BUT IT'S AMENDABLE TO THE SAME RULES.

You've no more right to intrude upon your husband's business privacy, or demand an accounting of all his outgoings and incomings than you would have the right to intrude upon and demand details of the janitor. It's an outrage and an impertinence, and if he rears at you and eventually lies to you, IT SERVES YOU RIGHT! ....

If you want to enter into the intimate affairs of your husband's life, GET YOURSELF INVITED. You'll be invited fast enough if you prove yourself a necessity and a joy. There's nothing a man likes more than a sympathetic audience and a sensible adviser who knows enough not to advise—which is what any sensible adviser should do.

But DON'T expect to get results by bullying and DON'T DEMAND DETAILS.

It's bad enough to have to spend ten hours on the rock piles without having to describe each individual rock you've smashed.

Reader Raises Question.

Editor News-Journal:

In a news item on the first page of last Saturday's paper, "Uncle Sam Could Learn Things Here," the statement was made that county and subdivisions cut debts while federal deficit soared.

Could Richland county have made the improvement that it did if it had not received the WPA funds from the federal government that it did? Just how many thousands of dollars were spent in the county and subdivisions I do not know, but I believe it was more than the debt was reduced. The total for school buildings, roads, streets and sewers was a plenty.

If it were not for these funds granted all over the United States as well as in this county the federal deficit would not be so large. Any business, public or private, could make a good showing if it received as large a percentage of its expenses from outside sources to help as Richland county and subdivisions did last year.

But it would be another story to tell if it all had to come out of their own profits. So don't give county, city and township officials credit for good management when they did it on donations from the federal government. Tell how much of the federal deficit was caused by donations in this county.

It is easy to ride along as long as the other party does the towing. But when you have to furnish the gas for power it is another story.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"As Scarce as Hens' Teeth."

If it is as scarce as hens' teeth, don't look for it.

You will never find it, for—it doesn't exist.

"Hen" here is generic for bird or fowl.

And the simile is an understatement, in allusion to the fact that no extant species of feathered creature has teeth.

There have been found fossils of prehistoric birds that boasted teeth; but they lost them during the geological period known as the Tertiary Age or the Age of Mammals, when the quadrupeds dominated the earth, to be followed by the so-called modern era or the Age of Man.

If you meet a woman on the street, at a concert or dance, wearing the same model dress as yours, it is not good manners to glare at her. Summary of Week's Happenings

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

SO DRAMA-CHARGED was the event—and so often have Democrats extolled its drama—that a fifth-grade schoolboy can report what took place on the drizzly day of March 4, 1933.

Even while grim President-elect Roosevelt was laying a damp hand on the old family Bible, America's banking structure was crumbling.

He proclaimed a four-day bank holiday. Then, in dizzy succession, came NRA . . . repeal . . . FERA . . . devaluation . . . CCC . . . AAA . . . SEC . . . reciprocal trade . . . NLRB . . . social security . . . WPA . . . re-election in 1936 . . . court reform . . . reorganization . . . arms embargo repeal.

As Republicans and Democrats wrangled over the result of these seven New Deal years, last Monday, the president attended a special church service, as he had done every March 4 for six years. That night the Roosevelts ate terrapin and pheasant with the cabinet.

On the air, Senate Leaders Barkley (Democrat) and McNary (Republican) re-fought the New Deal war. Boasted Barkley: "In 1932 the total income of the American people was $40,039,000,000, while in 1939 . . . it was $68,500,000,000." Reported McNary: "Our people are staggering under the greatest tax burden in the nation's history."

After seven years, Mr. Roosevelt remained, at least, Washington's biggest news-maker. This week's news from the capital might have carried these headlines:

FDR Still Won't Talk.

All Washington was tingling with third-term talk. Chief topic of gossip was a story in Washington paper that the president had confided to a southern congressman these facts—

His choice for vice president: Attorney General Jackson, Senator Wheeler or Security Administrator McNutt.

This report so excited anti-New Deal Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith that he praised Hull as the one Democrat who could end party strife. But the president, at his Panama fishing trip, would neither confirm nor deny the rumor.

FDR Backs Hatch Bill.

The president did talk when asked what he thought of extending the Hatch act to cover state workers who are paid out of federal funds. That law now bars federal employes below the rank of policy-maker from politics. Mr. Roosevelt liked the idea of extending it.

Republican senators gleefully backed him, but Democrats were divided. Democratic Senator Miller countered with an amendment to ease restrictions on federal workers. Senator Hatch said Miller's amendment would "mean the absolute defeat of the Democratic party in 1940." And Miller said the Hatch act as-is would "ruin the Democratic party." His amendment lost, 44 to 41.

FDR Okays Finnish Loan.

One of his first acts on returning from Panama had been to sign a bill enabling the Export-Import Bank to rush a $20,000,000 loan to Finland for non-military supplies. But his request for a $250,000 fund for Admiral Byrd's Antarctic expedition was dropped from the interior department supply bill by the house appropriations committee. Some committeemen had been irked to see advertising testimonials from members of the expedition.

People

Young Folks Get Jobs.

In the decade from 1930 to 1940, the National Resources committee reported this week, the number of persons between 20 and 64 years old increased twice as fast as the total U. S. population. Thus 23,000,000 new job-hunters were added to the potential labor supply at a time when technological improvements were making it possible for 80 workers to produce as much as 100 did in 1929. It's significant," the committee thought, that this did not appreciably increase the number of persons unemployed.

* * *

Long's Last Stand.

Louisiana's Gov. Earl Long, defeated last month for renomination, will lose his job May 14. Last week-end, in an attempt to clip the next administration's wings, he summoned the "lame duck" state legislature for a special session. Less than a guorum showed up. Simultaneously, the state Democratic central committee revoked its post-primary nomination of Long as his successor's secretary of state.

At Home

Queen's Feat.

Thirty-six hours before Nazi troops poured into Poland, last September, the 51,000-ton German liner Bremen sped from New York for refuge at Murmansk, Russia, whence she slipped safely home through the Allied blockade in December. Matching that feat of seamanship, Britons this week sailed their 85,000-ton Queen Elizabeth into New York after a secret maiden voyage from Clydebank, Scotland. Her Hudson river dockmates, Britain's 81,000-ton Queen Mary and France's 83,000-ton Normandie, have been rusting there since last fall. Those four ships are the world's largest.

* * *

Man-Made Earthquake.

Shenandoah, Pa., sits on land honey-combed with abandoned anthracite workings. One night this week, after a 24-hour rain, a 16-block area in the center of town caved in. Brick buildings settled 18 inches and cracked open. Gas and water lines were ripped and tangled. The rumbling warned 2,000 residents to safety, but some houses were so twisted that doors jammed and occupants had to crawl out the windows. Damage was estimated at $1,000,000.

* * *

Yes . . . No . . . Maybe.

The Sherman anti-trust law of 1890 prohibits combinations in restraint of interstate trade. Is the practice of medicine a trade?

Yes, the department of justice decided, two years, and indicted the American Medical association, two affiliates and 20 member-doctors on charges of obstructing the activities of a medical cooperative organized by federal employes in Washington. No, a district judge ruled, last July, and dismissed the indictments. This week a circuit court of appeals reversed that decision and sent the case back for trial.

Sports Dept.

Five years ago San Francisco sportsman Charles S. Howard picked up an undistinguished colt named Seabiscuit for $7,500. Now 7 years old, the big black thoroughbred earned more than 10 times his purchase price in a single afternoon recently. This prize—$86,650 for winning the Santa Anita handicap—brought his total earnings to $437,730, an ill-time American turf record.

Vital Statistics.

The death rate of women in every decade of life is lower than that of men, according to figures published this week by a life insurance company. Simultaneously, U. S. Surgeon General Thomas Parran declared: "It would be possible to add 10 years to the average life span of people living in the United States if we made full use of the scientific knowledge now available."

Weather Report.

As northern California floods receded last week-end, leaving 10 dead, tornadoes killed a schoolgirl at Evansville, Ind., and a WPA worker at Flatwood, Ill. Along the North Atlantic seaboard, two days later, the worst ice storm in 25 years snapped power lines.

Abroad

Looking Backward.

Ancient history became front-page news when, in 1922, scientists dug from the sands along Egypt's river Nile the 3,800 - year - old bones of Pharaoh Tut-ankh-Amen. Even more important, some archaeologists believe, is a tomb opened last week-end in the presence of modern Egypt's young King Farouk.

It's that of Psou-sennes I, who ruled 200 years after King Tut but about whose period less has been known. The mummy's head was found encased in a mask of pure gold, the body swathed in silver gilt. Most prized of the trinkets recovered from his 11-foot granite coffin are 21 gold bracelets inscribed with the monarch's family tree.

* * *

Double Trouble.

Arabs outnumber Jews about two-to-one in Palestine. And Britain, which runs the country under mandate from the League of Nations, proposes to keep Jewes permanently in the minority. To implement that policy, she recently imposed restrictions on Jewish land-buying.

As protest riots were reported from the Holy Land, this week, the new land laws were attacked in the house of commons as "shameful" betrayal of British promises to the Jews. The government successfully defended them, however, as a wartime measure necessary to keep the powerful Arabs of the Near East in line.

* * *

Foreigners at Leipzig.

At Leipzig's great international fair, which Germans regard as a business barometer, 6,600 exhibitors—only 82 fewer than last year—displayed their wares this week. That 18 foreign countries were represented was hailed by Nazis as proving the Allies blockade had failed to throttle German economic life.

As Others See It

Good As New.

The G. O. P. candidates this year won't need to write any new speeches against spending and government costs. They can use Mr. Roosevelt's in 1932.—Kansas City Star.

Rhubarb--- One Joy Of Spring

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Pink, succulent rhubarb is one of the joys of spring, bringing the new season right into the kitchen. One of the best ways to cook young rhubarb is to cut the stalks in appropriate lengths and bake gently in the oven until they are quite soft and yet have preserved their color and shape. If it is to be used as a pie filling, a little red currant jelly adds to the flavor.

Rhubarb Brown Betty is a grand dessert. Cover bottom of a pie dish with lightly-buttered crumbs, putting on these a layer of cooked rhubarb, flavored with nut meg and lemon juice and sweetened with confectioners' sugar; then more crumbs, more rhubarb and a topping of crumbs. Bake for 40 minutes until the top is nicely browned, and serve with sugar and cream.

For another dessert cut eight ounces preserved figs in smallish pieces and add to one pound of rhubarb after cutting and peeling. Place in saucepan in very little water to which has been added a tablespoon of sugar. Stew gently until tender. Serve with rice mold or hot pudding.

Stew one pound rhubarb until tender with sugar to taste and the rind of one-half lemon. Pour into a greased pie dish, sprinkle with seedless raisins, cover with stale sponge cake crumbs, dot with butter and bake in hot oven for 20 minutes.

Tasty Preserve.

Rhubarb Ginger is a delicious preserve. Use equal quantities of rhubarb and sugar. Wipe the fruit and cut into inch lengths, place in an earthenware bowl and cover with the sugar. Let it stand overnight. Next day strain off the liquid and put it in a preserving pan with some bruised ginger tied in a muslin bag. Allow an ounce of ginger to a pound of fruit. Boil down to one-third. Then add the rhubarb, stirring as little as possible; boil until transparent. Place in jars and seal.

Rhubarb Charlotte is made with alternate layers of buttered bread and chopped rhubarb placed in a pie dish. Sprinkle each layer of rhubarb with brown sugar and a little cinnamon or powdered ginger. Add two large tablespoons of water, and cover the dish with a plate. Bake until the rhubarb is tender, then cover with the white of an egg whipped to a stiff froth with a little sugar. Bake in the oven, leaving the door ajar, until the meringue has toasted slightly.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, March 10.

Sunday's horoscope is a most beneficent one, for there is promise of happiness, progress and prosperity, with many graces and gratifications in all departments of life. Individual enterprise and initiative assure promotion and preferment, with tokens of esteem and affection in all contacts, personal and professional. Those in place and power are particularly friendly and approachable.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of great progress and promise, with all affairs moving to gratification and pleasure under the expansive and generous rays of major planets. It is a time when personal initiative and industry may boldly claim the reward of merit, elders and those in power and authority being particularly gracious, just and generous.

A child born on this day may be energetic, have fine creative ability and sound ideas, with much ambition and the talents to back them up. It should have the support of its elders and those in power.

* * *

For Monday, March 11.

Monday's astrological forecast is for another day of definite success and conspicuous action, which may lead into unusual or surprising grooves. New matters of constructive nature are in order, possibly in co-operation with large corporations, secret societies, political or diplomatic circles. There will be obstacles or postponements, but ingenuity, innovation and tact should win the day.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of unforeseen and surprising activity, which may result in conspicuous success if new ideas and bold initiative or novelty are adopted. Subtlety and finesse, especially in dealing with important or secret organizations, are advised. Obstacles and opposition may be successfully combated. Safeguard the health of the household.

A child born on this day may be original, audacious and independent, as well as subtle and given to strategem or intrigue. It may have its times of depression and feelings of frustration, particularly if its emotional life is disturbed.

Loves Older Girl; She Spurns Him

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 18 years old and met a teacher a couple of years ago. She is in her early 20's, single, and lives with her family. As she is not in the same school with me, I make dates with her and sometimes she keeps them. But as a rule she breaks them for some little excuse.

Although I've never met her family they seem to resent me because of something I wrote in a letter to the girl, and which she evidently allowed them to read. She thinks I'm too young for her, and tells me to go out with other girls of my own age. I do that, but still I'd rather go with her. I really love her and always shall. And she says she likes me too. I've tried to forget her, but wish you could tell me how I can make her realize I love her.

WORRIED.

In the course of human events I believe it's not unlikely that you may be in and out of love a dozen times before you marry this charming young teacher of twenty.

But if you do remain in love, and the case proves to be serious, two years seniority on the part of a girl is no drawback. Meantime, I think her advice to you to enlarge your circle of acquaintances and go out with other girls is excellent, and I hope sincerely that you'll follow it.

TWO CLUBS ENTERTAIN GUESTS AT MEETING

'Noted Sculptors' Discussed By Mrs. Buchan at Art Study Session; Tea Served to Visitors at Cosmopolitan Affair.

THREE GUESTS, Mrs. E. R. Logan, Mrs. David Martin and Mrs. Walter James, and 27 members of the Art Study club gathered yesterday afternoon at the First Congregational church for the regular session. Mrs. Harry Buchan had the paper of the day on "Noted American Sculptors."

She discussed the life and works of Max Kalish, Lorado Taft and Karl Akeley. Hostesses for the day were Mrs. M. V. Scouten, Mrs. Carl Spangler and Mrs. C. K. Smaltz.

Tea was served from a table decorated with a centerpiece of jonquils. Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Smaltz poured. The next meeting will be held March 29 with Mrs. Marion Brinkerhoff, 43 Penn avenue. She will be assisted by Mrs. Frank Glasgow and Mrs. Ralph Race.

There were 43 members and guests of the Cosmopolitan club present at the Women's Club yesterday for the guest tea at which Mrs. J. H. Gongwer and Mrs. W. B. Osborn served as hostesses. Spring flowers including tulips and jonquils decorated the tea table over which Mrs. John Conard and Mrs. Balyeat presided. The next meeting will be held March 29 at the club with Mrs. D. A. Roth as hostess. Officers will be elected at this time.

CHAPTER XVI

"Who's there?" Mamie called crossly from behind the locked door.

"It's me, Mother! Star."

The door opened to reveal the frowsy-haired woman in a cheap silk nightgown. Her feet were encased in heelless slippers but she had not waited to put on a dressing gown.

"What's the matter now?" she scolded. "Hungry again, I suppose."

Star gazed at her sadly. Poor Mamie!

"I'm not the one in trouble," she warned. "It's Joe."

An expression of horror came to Mamie's face. She seized Star's arm so tightly that it hurt.

"What's happened to him? Out with it. Where is he?"

"He's dead," Star said gently.

"DEAD?" Mamie repeated. "How do you know?"

"Some one forced his truck into a ditch and shot him. I was in another car and saw the whole thing."

"I knew. I knew!" Mamie moaned. "I was afraid of this. I always knew it would happen."

"What was he doing, Mother?"

Caution even in that bitter moment veiled Mamie's eyes.

"They didn't find anything, did they? You were there. What did they say?"

"No one seemed to know. The truck was empty."

Mamie sighed, then she asked. "You didn't tell any one who he was?"

"No," Star said.

Tears streamed down Mamie's face as she cried, "Some one will pay for this! Joe had friends. . . . But that won't bring him back. What shall I do without him? How can I live?"

Star had been prepared for this.

"I'll do everything I can for you."

"I loved him," Mamie wept, "more than any one in the world. He was mean to me sometimes but I loved him."

Black waves of despair swept over the girl as she heard what she had always suspected. How little she meant, how little she had ever meant to her mother compared to Joe. But this was no time for self-pity. Sympathetically she urged the grief-stricken woman to go to bed while she made some coffee and brought it to her. Mamie gulped it but refused to touch the toast.

"I want a drink," she said sullenly. "Will you get it for me or shall I get it myself?"

"I'll bring it to you," Star promised.

Perhaps it was better that way, Star thought miserably. At least it would ease the pain of that first shock although sooner or later Mamie would have to face it. She was glad it was Sunday so that she could stay with her mother.

She expected the police to appear in investigating Joe's death but no one came to the apartment or telephoned until late in the afternoon. Then a furtive voice came over the phone, asking for Mrs. Delevan.

"She is asleep," Star said. "Who is calling?"

"Never mind that," the voice answered gruffly. "Just tell her that Joe has been killed. He's at the morgue under his other name."

His other name? What name? But before Star could ask this question the person at the other end of the line had hung up. So Joe was carrying on his illicit activities, whatever they were, under another name? A name Mamie knew. The knowledge plunged the girl into new depths of shame. But there was too much to do to worry about it. The kitchen was filthy with unwashed dishes and unemptied garbage. The living-room was littered with week-old papers and cigarette stubs.

* * *

Removing her dress and donning an old apron, Star set to work, scrubbing and cleaning. She found a release to her own overwrought emotions by bringing order into the chaos in which Mamie lived. It was after eight o'clock before she had finished. Her mother was lying on the bed prostrated with grief. Star wrote a note giving Mamie her telephone number but omitting the address.

"You can call me here any evening," she said. "And here is five dollars, which is all I have with me. Don't worry, Mother. I'll help you all I can."

On the way home she bought copies of the morning papers which were already on the street. There was no mention of Joe but in one corner of an inner page she found a small account of the murder of a truck driver named Dick McCoy. This must have been his other name, then, but what his business or connections were Star was never able to learn.

Joe's secret died with him, and Mamie, who had given up everything in life worth having for him, kept faith to the end. He was undoubtedly the only human being she had ever really loved.

Yet even this, Star admitted wearily, did not release her from her own obligations. She would have to accept the responsibility of her mother's support, and how was she to do this on the salary she was now making?

When she reached her room she found a note under her door.

The note under Star's door was from Clifford Payne and Bruce Donovan, with whom she was driving when she witnessed the killing of Joe.

"What's happened to you? Is this a nice way to treat your fellow musketeers?"

She smiled as she read it. She liked those two clean-cut boys, her boarding-house chums. But she knew now that the joyous life they represented was not for her. She would never be free so long as Mamie Delevan lived.

* * *

Yet she was to find that fate seldom deals a blow without at the same time bestowing some compensation. The very next day she received a promotion.

Star was at her desk typing with less efficiency than usual when she was summoned to the office of the business manager. It had been several weeks since she had seen Milton Wood. She had congratulated herself on conquering her silly infatuation but when she saw him sitting at the desk which held the photograph of his beautiful wife Star's unruly heart warned her that she was far from cured. He was so quietly magnetic. His dark head was bent over some papers but when she entered he lifted his eyes and his smile was like the sun warming her whole being.

"Good morning," he said. "How would you like to be my secretary?"

Her pale face flushed as she asked, "Temporarily, you mean?"

"No. Permanently. Miss Hale is married, you know, and it seems she is forced to renounce her business career in favor of raising a family. Very sensible of Miss Hale but most unfortunate for me. I've learned to depend on her too much."

"Are you going to let me take her place? Do you think I can?"

Milton Wood replied, "I'm sure of it although it may take some patience on both sides until we get used to each other. I'm very difficult at times."

Star didn't believe it, but even if he were, she told herself she could forgive him anything for the mere privilege of working with him.

"When do I start?" she asked.

"Right now. The fact is Miss Hale is to ill to be working at all but she will come in later this afternoon to explain things to you. Okay?"

Yes, of course!" Star replied, feeling important and excited.

"You will not get as much money as she does to begin with," her employer stated. "But I will give you a five-dollar raise now and the full amount in six months if you can do the work."

She hadn't even thought that part of it. But wasn't he kind? The kindest person she had ever known, Star thought gratefully.

Marriage Meddlers

I tucked her into my bed and hurried down to the kitchen

"Heat me some milk, Katie, quickly, please," I said.

Katie had the milk out of the icebox before I had finished speaking. Then she turned to me with an anxious query.

"Who seeck? Fader? Old vomane? Mees Mary?"

"No, none of the three. I want the milk for Miss Fairfax."

Katie's had jerked involuntarily toward the stove, as if she would have like to snatch the pan of milk away from it.

"Vot matter mit her?" she demanded. "Vy you no call me? You no beezness vaiting on dot boonch of soup greens I'll bet she no seeck. She shoost got good case of jitters, dot baby."

"Katie!" I said with as much severity as I could muster. "Never again let me hear you speak in that fashion of a guest in our home."

"I will get a cup and saucer, spoon and tray," I said.

"Milk, she all ready time you get back," she said eagerly, and I knew the words spelled apology. When I returned to the kitchen, she had an attractive plate filled with small crackers, and when I poured the hot milk into the cup and put a salt shaker beside the cup and cracker plate on the tray Katie took it up before I could hit it.

"You no carry dees," she said with decision.

"Thank you, Katie," I said, and led the way upstairs, taking the tray from her just before we reached my door.

"I open door for you?" she queried hopefully, and I knew that her insatiable curiosity avidly desired a glimpse of Edith Fairfax "in jitters."

"No, thank you," I said firmly. "I can manage very nicely. On your way downstairs, take that vase of flowers on the landing with you. The blossoms should be thrown out and fresh ones of the same kind put in."

She evidently recognized a stone wall when she saw one, for she turned with her invariable cheery, "All right, I feex," and went toward the stairs. I delayed my entrance to my room until she was well on her way to the landing, and then I went in, quickly shutting the door behind me.

Edith was lying with closed eyes and slow tears were running down her ravaged face, tears which she was wiping away with feeble futility.

"You are so good to me, Madge" she said. "I—I—can't bear it."

"You're using the wrong adjective," I said cheerily. "I'm not being 'good.' I'm simply being 'decent.' Come now, raise yourself and I'll slip a pillow behind you while you sip this milk. Take this first."

"This" was a mild sedative pellet which I had in my desk, one of the kind which Katharine gives with warm milk when she wishes to ease taut nerves into sleep.

She swallowed the pellet obediently, and then sipped the milk, although at first her teeth chattered against the cup. When she had finished, I put her down on the pillow again, lowered the shades, opened a window, and, sitting down by the bed, put my hand over her cold ones.

"Now go to sleep," I commanded. "I'll sit right here until you're off."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

LISTEN TO HIS BID

WHEN YOU have shown such tremendous strength that your partner knows you can double the opponents and beat their contract, your pass is an absolute force upon him. By your action, you ask him whether his hand is such that he thinks your side could do better by playing the hand or beating the enemy's undertaking. He must not pass. He must either bid or double, and if he doubles, that may then constitute your cue to make still another bid.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♠
2 ♥	2 ♠	6 ♥	6 ♠
7 ♥	7 ♠	Dbl

In a four-table match between the Knickerbocker Whist club and City Athletic club in New York, that bidding occurred at two tables. East and West being set four tricks, worth 700 points to North and South. At a third table, North passed the 7-Spades, an absolute force on his partner, who knew North was strong enough to double. South decided that, if there were thirteen tricks in the hand at hearts, there must also be at No Trump, since he had the spade A. So he bid 7-No Trumps and, of course, made it, for a huge top score.

The East-West top score came on very sharp bidding. South opened with 3-Hearts as an attempted shutout. When North leaped to 6-Hearts, imaginative Edward Kenton in the East inserted 6-Spades, being ready to try 7-Diamonds if his partner had to take out to 7-Clubs. But South doubled the 6-Spades and West passed, so he was set only three tricks, for 500 points, the smallest loss East and West took anywhere.

Bellville Club Loses at Carey

Favored Bluejay Quintet Drops 27 to 24 Decision to Tiffin Calvert In Thriller.

By CHARLES MARTIN

WHATEVER hopes Bellville high had of reaching the state Class B tournament in Columbus next week were blasted last night.

The Bluejays, cast in the role of favorites, apparently didn't take their semi-final game seriously and were eliminated by an underdog Tiffin Calvert combine, 27 to 24, in a thriller in the sectional Class B meet at Carey last night.

Bellville returns tonight to play Bettsville in the consolation finals, but the outcome of the game means little to Coach W. H. Miley and his athletes.

Tiffin plays a smooth-working Bluffton quintet in the finals at 9 o'clock. The winner will advance to Columbus.

Playing ragged ball and unable to captilize on easy shots were two of the principal reasons the Bluejays failed in their first sectional tourney appearance.

* * *

Trailing for three periods, the Bellville five, led by Bill Martin, tried desperately to overcome Tiffin's early advantage but the task was too big.

* * *

Completely bottling up Martin, the Bluejays' only tall player, in the first half, Calvert was able to control the rebounds and keep possession of the ball.

Bellville limited the Tiffinites to a field goal in the third heat to climb within a point of tieing the score. Martin broke loose long enough at the beginning of the fourth frame to connect near the basket and the Bluejays went ahead.

That lead, however, seemed to bring the Calvert club to life and Abrens, who had been out of the game for nearly two periods, rushed back and collected two quick fielders to keep his teammates out in front.

The Bluejay squad couldn't cope with the heighth advantage held the Calvert and had trouble all the way in taking its share of rebounds. With Martin and Howard "Tick" Hamilton undercover most of the time, Clinton Dill was the only lad to make himself valuable beneath the basket.

Only twice during the hard-fought battle was Bellville ahead. Midway in the first quarter the Bluejays led; 3 to 2, and in the early seconds on the final chapter they were leading, 20 to 19.

With three minutes remaining, Bellville was behind, 23 to 22, but Calvert added a pair of foul conversions and a goal to its total to ice the affair.

Calvert was ahead, 9 to 3, in the initial stanza, 17 to 13, at halftime, and 19 to 18, as the clubs went into the fourth.

* * *

Banks, who slipped under the basket for three important goals, point man for the game with 12 tallies. Martin, who scored four goals in the second half, and Hamilton paced the Bluejays with 10 markers apiece.

* * *

Bluffton, which turned back Bettsville, 51 to 26, in the second semi-final affray, will go into tonight's contest as a favorite. The club, despite a heighth disadvantage, is a well-balanced team and its zone defense should prove troublesome to the Tiffin outfit. Four sophomores are in the starting five for Bluffton.

Jenkins Wins Right to Meet Title-Holder

Stops Rival In First Heat; Will Tangle With Ambers In May.

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— The lightweight division at last has produced a challenger who may tag champion Lou Ambers with his first knockout.

Lethel Lew Jenkins of Texas stuck a stick of dynamite right under Ambers' crown last night at Madison Square Garden when he clinched a title shot with the 135-pound king by knocking out Tippy Larkin of New Jersey in 2:41 of the first round.

Shaw of Fremont, Dugger of Canton Given Preference Over Mansfield Star at Center.

REGARDED as one of the greatest centers in Mansfield high school basketball history, Russ Beer, tall Tyger pivot star, was named on the third team of the Associated Press All-Ohio scholastic selections announced yesterday.

* * * * *

Robert Shaw of Fremont Ross was selected for the center berth on the first team and Jack Dugger, of Canton McKinley, former Mansfield star, was named on the second team.

* * * * *

The selection of Shaw and Dugger ahead of Beer did not meet the approval of the Tyger coach, Vern Hoffman. Hoffman contends that Beer outplayed Dugger in both Mansfield-Canton games and also held the edge over Shaw, whom he opposed in a district tournament semi-final game last night.

The only other Tyger honored was Gene Miller, a forward, who received honorable mention.

In addition to Shaw, the first team consists of Glen Barker of New Philadelphia, and Horace Gillom of Massillon, forwards, and Chet Sealey of Gallipolis and Robert Miller of Greenfield, guards.

Bill Martin of Bellville was given honorable mention at center on the Class B selections. The teams follow:

Gene Miller's Basket Gives Mansfield Cagers 38 to 37 Win In Sandusky Gym.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

BANKING a shot through the strings from a difficult angle in a "sudden death" overtime, Gene Miller kept Mansfield high school's title hopes alive in the district championships in Sandusky last night.

Fighting what appeared to be a hopeless battle, the Tygers, sparked by the lanky Miller, staged one of the most sensational comebacks in tournament history on the Lake City's hardwood last night to eliminate the favorite, Fremont Ross, 38 to 37.

Tonight Coach Vern Hoffman's crew of hoopsters returns to the Sandusky court in its last defense of the sectional honors in the finals against Bellevue, which took the measure of Ashland, 30 to 26, in the other semi-final game last night.

The titular tussle is scheduled at 8 p. m., and, while the Tygers may be favored to clinch their third straight district crown, the Bellevue basketeers may prove more dangerous than anticipated, despite the 37 to 18 whipping Hoffman's men administered to the Crimson earlier this season.

* * *

Incidentally, tonight's game will bring together the same schools which battled it out for the Columbus trip last year, and, if you remember, the Tygers won that ball game in the fading seconds on a miraculous shot by Jake Lyons.

* * *

Last year's finals developed into a spectacular tussle and tonight's meeting may be a repetition, but basketball fans who taxed the capacity of the huge Sandusky gym last night may never see another ball game like they did last night.

Trailing 34 to 24 going into the final period, the Tygers staged a rally that left the spectators limp from excitement. Ten points is more than any team has been able to spot the Little Giants this season and win.

But the Tygers just wouldn't admit defeat, and it was their determination to win that really demoralized and beat the highly-favored Rossmen.

Miller ignited the rally with a basket from a rebound, he tied the score at 34-all with a pair of free throws near the end of the game and Jack Shiplet gave the Tygers their first lead in more than three quarters when he stole the ball and dribbled into the basket for a set-up shot.

Fremont was held scoreless until the final 15 seconds of the fourth quarter when big Bob Shaw, All-Ohio center, pounded in a rebound to knot the count 36-all just before the gun barked.

In the overtime, Fremont was first to draw blood on Shaw's free throw. But two points is necessary to win an extra-time game, and the Tygers refused to fool around with any free throws.

* * *

A Tyger was fouled right after Shaw's conversion, but instead of the victim trotting up to the black stripe, Acting Captain Don Rose elected to take the ball out of bounds, a privilege offered teams under this season's rules.

* * *

The Tygers set up a play, sent Shiplet toward the bucket and he missed. A Fremont player was fouled and he could have won the ball game then and there had he converted, but he didn't.

Then another Ross player was called for an infraction and again Rose took the ball out of bounds, and this time they tossed to Center Russ Beer in the pivot in the same formation, but the throw was too high.

Seconds later another foul was called against the Giants, and for the third time the Tygers tried for two points to end the ball game. This time their strategy worked.

With the Tygers still in the same formation, Rose passed the ball to Miller, who dribbled past the pivot (thanks to a perfect block by Beer) and cut into the basket and caged a one-handed hook shot from the right side to end the overtime after one minute, 28 seconds of play.

The ball had hardly fallen through the hoop before Mansfield rooters rushed out on the floor and carried their victorious cagers to their dressing room.

Without a question of doubt, it was the most spectacular ball game witnessed in the Sandusky gym in years. Yes, even more thrilling than the Tygers' championship triumph last year.

The Tygers played a losing ball game throughout the greater part of the contest. They held a 6 to 2 lead at one stage in the first quarter, but were behind 13 to 7 going into the second period, and did not lead again until the final seconds.

Fremont held an 18 to 13 advantage at the half, and lengthened the lead in the next frame when it outscored Mansfield, 16 to 11.

* * *

While Miller added the spectacular touch to the brilliant battle, Beer contributed more than his share to the victory. Outscored 13 to 12 by Miller, the tall Tyger center more than held his own on rebounds with the mighty Shaw. Shaw, however, was the scoring leader with 17 points.

* * *

Beer also was handicapped in the second half by three personals which were inflicted in the opening periods.

The other semi-final tussle was a listless affair, and many spectators left the gym before it was completed in Bellevue's favor. The game was also marked by the ragged officiating. Ashland never led, but the difference in score was never more than six points. Vince Barr tallied 13 points for the A's.

What guides birds on their annual migrations has long been a topic for discussion and disagreement among scientists. One of the latest theories advanced by Dr. Ball of Yale, is that birds navigate by the sun. In early morning and late afternoon their route is outlined by the light of the rising or setting sun on treetops, and is by no means the straight-line flight popularly imagined. Since they tend to follow the tree lines, especially along ridges, a relatively narrow strip of water or patch of cleared country will turn them many miles out of their way, according to American Wildlife Institute.

Foreign soldiers who use skiis for rapid maneuvers and white suits to make them invisible against the snow are borrowing an idea from nature. The snowshoe hare, because it has no defense except speed, is equipped with wide feet, which enable it to scamper across the snow with the greatest of speed. And this animal, which is sometimes known as the varying hare, changes its fur to white in the winter so it will blend with background, just as do the soldiers on skiis.

The first show for dogs only was held at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, in 1859. Prior to that, of course, dogs had been exhibited more or less informally at local fairs and agricultural shows. Each section had its particularly favored breeds, but there was no effort to organize dog breeding and showing prior to 1859.

CRAWFORD TO VOTE ON BONDS FOR STRUCTURE

Issue to Build New Grand Stand at Fairgrounds to Be Submitted at Primary.

BUCYRUS — Crawford county voters will be given an opportunity to approve or disapprove a bond issue for the construction of a new grand stand at the county fair grounds here, at the May primaries.

This announcement was made by the board of commissioners Friday after the Crawford County Agricultural society, sponsors of the county fair, requested that the commissioners submit a bond issue to the voters for construction of a grand stand to replace the one destroyed by fire last month. Commissioners have not decided upon the amount of the issue.

Prosecutor Leo J. Scanlon was in Columbus Friday conferring with the state tax commission for approval of the bond issue.

Meanwhile, members of the fair board are going forward with plans for the county fair in August. Members expressed the belief that the county's voters will approve the bond issue and that the new stand will be completed in time for the opening of the fair.

RITES SUNDAY

Child Murder Victim Will Be Buried In Morrow County.

Funeral services for Lena Marjorie Gamble, nine-year-old murder victim in the murder-suicide tragedy south of Lexington Thursday afternoon, will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the home of the child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Gamble near the Richland-Morrow county line, and at 2:30 p. m. in the Grace Evangelical church at Johnsville.

Rev. C. A. Thompson, pastor of the Lexington Congregational church, will officiate at both services. Burial will be in the Shauck cemetery in Morrow county.

Plans for funeral services for Theodore Smith, 27, the Gambles' hired hand, who shot the girl to death and then killed himself, were still incomplete at noon today, pending the arrival of his parents from West Virginia.

Ora O. Snyder, Lexington funeral director in charge of the bodies, said the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Smith of Lindside, W. Va., were contacted yesterday and are scheduled to arrive in Lexington today to arrange for the funeral.

Youth Admits Hoax, Says He Just Wanted To Meet Judy.

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— A 19-year-old youth has admitted, police say, that what was feared to be a plot to kidnap Judy Garland, young film star, was nothing but a figment of his imagination.

Police psychiatrist Dr. Paul de River says that Robert Wilson, transient youth held on suspicion of kidnaping, told him that he "just wanted to meet" the young actress.

Wilson was arrested Thursday night after officers said he telephoned police that Miss Garland would be kidnaped.

FINN-RED PEACE SCENE SHIFTS

Sweden Finishes Role as Go-Between; Finnish Envoy on Way to Moscow, Report.

attention is being directed to the question of to what extent Germany may make diplomatic capital in northern Europe, if the Finnish war is settled.

If some agreement can be reached, it is assumed Germany will try to extend her influence in Scandinavia by arguing she had safe-guarded this region's neutrality.

It was taken for granted that the Soviets' first demands were severe, but this was believed to be in keeping with the apparent desire of both the Russians and Finns not to show weakness in seeking a settlement.

Speculate On Terms.

It was rumored that Moscow might be satisfied with only a section of the Karelian isthmus and a naval base near the mouth of the Gulf of Finland but these rumors were without confirmation.

Authoritative sources denied that Sweden had urged the Finns to accept Russia's peace conditions, or that Sweden's actions were under pressure from Germany.

Peace conditions have been described unofficially as follows:

Finland to cede to Russia the Karelian isthmus, the city of Viipuri, the entire north coast of Lake Ladoga, Hanko peninsula and its naval port, and at least part of the Petsano district fronting on the Arcic ocean.

They are described as much more severe than the Russian demands which precipitated the war Nov. 30.

(In Helsinki, some Finns professed to see in the Russian terms an effort to gain time for polishing a new offensive strategy, while others thought these were bargaining points.

(Officially Finland was silent concerning the peace moves, and a government spokesman said, "the situation has not changed" in reference to fighting in bitter progress on the Karelian isthmus Yesterday's Finnish military communique told of continued success in withstanding the Russian battering ram. The Russian command, for the first time in many days, released no communique.)

Finn Negotiators on Way to Riga, Report.

COPENHAGEN — (INS) — To established direct contact with a Soviet peace delegation, Finnish representatives already are en route to Riga, Latavia, according to well-authenticated information in Copenhagen today.

Authoritiative quarters in Helsinki, however, stressed that the delegation is not going to Riga to "take orders," but to "get information."

At the same time wide speculation circulated in Scandinavian quarters as to the reason for the present trip to Berlin and Rome of Pehr Svinhufvud, former president of Finland.

One view is that Svinhufvud, after vainly trying to get the Germans to press the Soviets for milder peace conditions, now hopes to solicit aid from anti-Bolshevistic Italy.

WORLD WAITS HITLER SPEECH

advance, it appeared that Hitler's speech for the most part would be aimed at reassuring the German people regarding the certainty of future victory, while at the same time stressing Von Ribbentrop's visit to Italy as proof of the Rome-Berlin axis' solidarity.

Considerable importance was attached to the movements in Berlin of a group of Soviet experts headed by Commerce Commissar Tevoscian, who tonight will entertain German dignitaries at the Soviet embassy.

Observers in Berlin saw all recent events pointing toward the final phase of the Russo-Finnish conflict with the next few days expected to decide the whole immediate future of northern Europe.

Svinhufvud was received with significant promptness by Von Ribbentrop when the Finn arrived yesterday, and it was believed that he would have an audience with Chancellor Hitler today.

Von Ribbentrop is to stay only a few days in Rome, ostensibly to repay a visit made to the reich by Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister. The German foreign minister will see Premier Mussolini and Count Ciano.

The German's trip was termed a routine continuation of consultations between the partners in the Rome-Berlin axis, but it was certain that these pressing problems would be discussed: (1) The Russo-Finnish war, including the present Swedish mediation efforts; (2) Allied threats of intervention in Finland via Scandinavia; and (3) British seizures of German coal aboard Italian colliers.

Italy to Stand Pat on Foreign Policy.

ROME — (AP) — An informed Italian source said today Italy probably will retain her policy of non-belligerency after the visit here of German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop.

This informant said the visit, while "important," is not regarded by Italians as an occasion for alarm.

Adolf Hitler was believed in Italian circles to have taken the initiative in sending Von Ribbentrop, and diplomatic sources suspected that he might be seeking Italy's aid in case of war in Scandinavia.

Vatican authorities, meanwhile, announced Pope Pius XII would receive the German foreign minister in private audience Monday.

Italians assumed that Von Ribbentrop's conversations with Premier Mussolini and Count Galeozzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, would cover the entire international situation.

Well-informed Fascists expressed belief Germany was inclined to exert pressure on Russia to moderate her peace terms to Finland.

They also thought Britain and France had informed the Finns of aid they were prepared to furnish.

Copenhagen dispatches to Italian newspapers reported the allies were pressing Sweden for permission to send troops through Swedish territory to Finland.

HOLD 'GUEST NIGHT'

GALION—Of more than usual interest was the program which was planned by Mrs. Edward Garverick and Mrs. James Weaver for the "Guest Night" meeting of the Wesleyan class at the First Methodist church, Friday evening. This was attended by nearly 80 members and guests.

The class teacher, O. E. Hill, welcomed the guests, and the program was announced by B. W. Myers, class president.

Blossom Burgert gave a book review, and the musical part of the program, songs, and instrumental numbers, was presented by Rev. Sterling Wees, pastor of the Church of Christ, R. W. Patterson, Barbara Leiby, Ruth Garverick, Eva Procker, and Avis Lavern Forrest.

At the close of the evening, refreshments were served, with Mrs. Ralph Sipes as chairman of the social committee.

STOCK TRADERS ENCOURAGED BY SALES SURVEY

Learn of 6 Per Cent Increase In Department Store Business Past Week.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Slightly higher prices predominated in today's stock market trades.

Market encouragement was derived from the survey of the federal reserve board for the week ended March 2, disclosing the country's department store sales topped the comparable period last year by 6 per cent. The year-to-year increase in the preceding week amounted to 5 per cent.

Principal improvement was registered in the districts of Atlanta with 27 per cent, Dallas 24 per cent, St. Louis 19 per cent and Kansas City 16 per cent.

Not so pleasing was a dive in the federal reserve index of industrial production for February. The board reported this barometer fell to 109 in that month compared with 119 in January and 128 for December.

THEATERS

"Northwest Passage."

Bringing to the screen Kenneth Roberts' adventure novel which was a best seller for months, "Northwest Passage" opens at the Ohio theater today, with Spencer Tracy starred and Robert Young and Walter Brennan in leading featured roles. It is filmed entirely in technicolor. The picture tells the story of a courageous band of Rogers' Rangers who set forth on a secret mission to wipe out a village of marauding Indians.

* * *

Kipling Story.

Rudyard Kipling's "The Light That Failed," starring Ronald Coleman opens today at the Madison theater. It is a powerful romance which takes place in London and the Sudan during the closing years of the last century. Ida Lupino and Walter Huston play in the supporting cast. The co-feature is "Blondie on a Budget," which is the newest of the human domestic comedies based upon Chic Young's popular comic strip. Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake play the leads. Rita Hayworth plays the role of an old flame who returns to singe Dagwood.

* * *

Frontier Life.

The heroic story of an intrepid band of frontiersmen who struggled valiantly against the onslaughts of treacherous Indian tribes is contained in the epic "Allegheny Uprising," starring Claire Trevor and John Wayne. The story has to do with the revolt of Pennsylvania colonists against the British. This picture and "Rovin' Tumbleweeds" are the shows at the Park theater beginning Sunday. Gene Autry, Mary Carlisle and Douglas Dumbrille are in the cast.

* * *

"Another Thin Man."

Beginning Sunday at the Ritz theater will be "Another Thin Man" with William Powell and Myrna Loy. This time there's a Thin Man, jr., in the person of eight-month-old William Poulsen. A fast-moving plot keeps the family in hot-water. The second feature is "The Honeymoon's Over" with Stuart Erwin and Marjorie Weaver as the newlyweds. Romance in an office is quite different from love in a cottage and the difference makes for the hilarous comedy.

* * *

Wrestling and Boxing.

Showing at the Majestic theater beginning Sunday will be Joe E. Brown in "The Gladiator." Man Mountain Dean, heaviest of the heavyweight grapplers, tussles Joe three falls to a finish for the world's wrestling championship. "Kid Nightingale" is the co-feature, with Jane Wyman and John Payne in the leads. This is a story about a prize fighter who likes to sing much more than he likes to fight.
